

The feature gives the vehicle control over some elements of braking and steering when driving, although it is not a substitute for a human driver.

It says there have been no crashes, injuries or fatalities as a result of the incidents.